

Universitätsmedizin Göttingen, 37099 Göttingen
Abteilung Ethik und Geschichte der Medizin, Prof. Dr. Silke Schicktanz, Humboldtallee 36, 37073 Göttingen

Internal Workshop at the Working Group “Cultural and ethical Studies of Biomedicine”

Presentation of (preliminary) project results on December 20th 2017
Venue: seminar room, Dept. of Medical Ethics and History of Medicine
9.30 am - 2.30 pm

“Mind the risk”
9.30 - 10.30 h	Sabine Wöhlke:	Lay people’s attitudes and risk perceptions concerning genetic testing and risk communication
10.30 - 10.45 h	break
10.45 – 11.45 h	Manuel Schaper:	Direct-to-Consumer Genetic Testing (DTC GT) and its ethical implications through laypeople’s eyes: Questions of trustworthiness, utility and regulation
11.45 – 12.00 h	break
“GenoPerspektiv”
12.00 – 13.00 h	Mark Schweda:	Literature Review and Socio-empirical Findings on Ethical Aspects of Genomic High-throughput Technologies”
13.00 – 13.30 h	break
13.30 – 14.30 h	Alexander Urban:	Subjective views on genomic high throughput technologies and the influence of knowledge, personal experience and public discourse

Projects involved:

GENOPERSPEKTIV (Managing Genomic High-Throughput Data: Regarding the Perspectives of the Clinic, Ethics, Law, and Biomedical Information Technology) funded by the BMBF

Mind the Risk (Ethical, psychological and social implications when providing risk information by using genetic and other relevant technologies) funded by the Swedish Reichsbank Fond

Guests are welcomed: Please send an email until 15.12.17 to
Dr. Sabine Wöhlke: sabine.woehlke@medizin.uni-goettingen.de